Our Training Model

Kimberly Ryan advocates for a holistic approach to learning, emphasizing that sustainable change is attainable only through continuous support in developing systems, structures, and cultures that foster and reward desired behaviours.

Our passion for Learning and Development is greatly demonstrated in the delivery of training programs that feature the following:

- Customized and tailored to your training needs.
- Engaging and interactive classroom settings (both Virtual and Onsite).
- Scheduled to suit your preferred timings.

As graphically represented below, our learning and development model offers our clients options for operational effectiveness and organizational preferences.

In this regard, Kimberly Ryan specially packages its learning events to:

- Meet the needs of the organization/participants
- Identify and bridge existing skills gaps
- Evaluate the learning progress of the participants

Pre-training Diagnostic Options

- Stakeholder based.
- Classroom based.

Delivery And Design Option

Qualities That Set Our Program Apart From Our Competitors

Moderate Level of Content

We are selective in our content, choosing the “need to know” over the “nice to know”, thereby avoiding information overload that minimize the impact of the program.

Real-life Problem Solving

Our training focuses on real-world applications, giving participants the opportunity to use course content to solve actual problems they face regularly.

Balance Between Affective, Behavioural And Cognitive Learning

Our program involves a three-pronged approach: fostering the right attitudes, developing, and practicing skills and promoting understanding of the concepts and models behind the subject.

Allowance For Future Planning & Evaluation

At the end of each program, participants often ask, "Now what?" This is the key part of our approach, as we design all programs with the next steps and potential challenges in mind.

Variety Of Learning Approaches

We enhance our training quality through pre-read documents, questions, case problems, role-playing, videos, simulations, and interactive exercises.

Life-long-learning/On-going Support

After completing our program, we continue to support delegates' lifelong learning by periodically sending relevant materials, including articles, white papers, and book summaries.

Strategic HR Leadership Program

Program Overview:

In today's rapidly evolving business landscape, HR leaders play a critical role in driving organizational success. The Strategic HR Leadership Program (SHLP) is designed to equip HR professionals with the skills, knowledge, and expertise needed to excel as strategic business partners and leaders.

Program Schedule:

Quarterly

March, June, September & December Cohorts.

Program Objectives:

1. Equip HR professionals to create and align HR strategies with business goals, enhancing HR's impact on organisational success.
2. Provide insights on economic trends, such as inflation and talent scarcity, and their effects on talent management.
3. Teach techniques for talent mapping and succession planning to support business continuity.
4. Develop skills in designing talent programs to address skill gaps, leadership needs, and future business requirements.
5. Introduce modern performance management approaches that connect employee performance with business outcomes.
6. Prepare HR leaders to manage organisational change effectively, addressing resistance and fostering adaptability.
7. Enable HR teams to design scalable, goal-aligned learning programs using technology and e-learning.
8. Guide HR leaders in fostering a high-performance culture to boost engagement, retention, and productivity.
